

Please do not lift oversight and regulation of the media to prevent diversity in this market. We have already lost so much diversity that the public is only getting a very small portion of what used to be covered by the major networks. Only PBS continues good, diverse coverage. But one is not enough; every corporation, like every individual, has it's blindspot. We need MORE diversity, not less. Why would the FCC, which is supposed to look out for the public, even consider lifting regulation of big corporations??? One can't help but think this is because they are biased toward big business. And there is usually just one reason for this: big money! If you vote to lift these regulations you will be coming down on the side of pandering to an already over-inflated, greedy big business, just as the Bush Administration has done from the beginning. And you will be smashing the apparatus that enables our democracy to work. History will label you an Enemy of the American People (and that will be correct).
